

COAL OR SHUTDOWN, INDUSTRY WARRING

GOVERNMENT WILL NOT SEIZE COAL OR RAIL PROPERTY

EMERGENCY MEASURES ARE CONFINED TO REGULATION.

BOARD IS UPHELD

Gains Prestige as Court of Appeals Rules Against Pennsylvania Lines.

Washington. — Government measures to relieve the emergency in the coal and rail situation are confined to regulation, lend its help in the allocation of such coal as is mined and in the movement of such trains as have the men and equipment to keep them moving.

The impression that the government will take over railroads and mines and make wage agreements with employees, is erroneous. The steps taken by the federal government are merely to make best use of such coal production as is available. Nothing has been done yet by the government toward compelling men to return to work on the railroads.

Can't End Strike. — Senators seem agreed that no legislation can be passed which will control the railroads in the sense in which such powers were exercised during the war. There will be no control of the railroads in the sense in which such powers were exercised during the war. There will be no control of the railroads in the sense in which such powers were exercised during the war.

Meanwhile a decision of far-reaching importance has been handed down by the United States circuit court of appeals which practically settles a collateral issue which has been a sore spot in the relations between railroads and their employees in the east for some time.

The Pennsylvania railroad has insisted that any agreements reached by it with duly elected representatives of workers are valid and binding on all the rest. The question of what "duly elected" means has forced the question into the courts.

Lower Court Reversed. — The Pennsylvania case was heard in the district court and the decision was reversed. The Pennsylvania case was heard in the district court and the decision was reversed.

Britain Building Flying Battleship

London. — The first flying battleship is being built at Southampton by the British air ministry. Elaborate precautions have been taken to prevent the leakage of any information concerning the ship.

The ship is fitted with two 650 horsepower engines able to drive the ship through the water as well as the air. There are several machine guns mounted on the ship. It is planned to send the craft for several weeks of secret operations with the navy, and during these tests it will be equipped with foghorns, anchors and night lights.

No More Contract Roads, Is Plan of Rock Supervisors

MILLIONAIRE STOCK PLUNGER'S FAILURE RECALLS BIG COUP

Allan A. Ryan.

Members of the Rock county board Tuesday practically adopted an unwritten agreement to discontinue building contract roads under contract. The supervisors favored a slower program of permanent road building for Rock county, using only the county equipment for "cheaper and better highways."

The largest business before the board was the settlement of future road policies.

The issue came up when Supervisor W. S. Perrigo, Detroit, offered a resolution that the county highway commissioner report to the board all poor work on roads built under contract. The Detroit man urged more supervision and asserted that it is expected it will favor one of the compromise routes out of Pleasant street and then south to the Hanover road.

Out Defects. — The supervisors passed the troublesome highway 20 location over to the highway commissioner for a report. The committee is expected to report. Its recommendation is expected to be a slower program of permanent road building for Rock county, using only the county equipment for "cheaper and better highways."

Call Attention to the "Deplorable Condition of the Road." — The supervisors passed the troublesome highway 20 location over to the highway commissioner for a report. The committee is expected to report. Its recommendation is expected to be a slower program of permanent road building for Rock county, using only the county equipment for "cheaper and better highways."

Stage Wordy Tilt. — The contractor to do much of these things is the contractor now operating on the highway. The contractor is the contractor now operating on the highway. The contractor is the contractor now operating on the highway.

Free Staters' Advance Desperately Opposed by Republicans.

Dublin. — Intense fighting is in progress in the vicinity of Kilmallock, county Limerick, according to reports reaching Dublin.

The reports said the republicans were trying to delay the advance of the nationalists, but while many men are said to be engaged in the fighting, nothing like a pitched battle apparently is possible.

The communications of the nationalists are reported to be suffering here and there from small but active bands of guerrilla fighters who are cutting field telephone lines and harassing the free states.

The latter, however, are reported to be continuing their advance.

Neenah Woman to Head Voters' Body

Ask Commission to Restore Trains at Fort Atkinson

Madison. — The first complaints against curtailment of service by railroads were received by the Wisconsin railroad commission Tuesday. Formal request for action by the commission to restore the coal strike is made. Mr. Trumbower, railroad commissioner, announced.

"People must expect a most serious interference with travel during the next few days, unless the coal strike is ended," Mr. Trumbower said. "The commission cannot order trains restored when the roads have no coal with which to run them."

"There is scarcely any coal on Wisconsin docks, and but a short supply remaining for the railroads. Gas companies face the same serious problem that confronts the carriers and unless relief is soon furnished, service in this utility will have to be cut."

On complaint of City Health Officer Fred B. Welch, regarding pollution of Rock river from sewage running into the stream from Mercy hospital, City Engineer C. V. The action was taken following an exposure of the situation by local railroad men.

Further action regarding improvements on the North Franklin street viaduct was taken by the council on Alderman John Harlow Monday night. Alderman R. G. Cunningham was instructed to get in touch with officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway.

Alderman Harlow said the railway officials informed him no improvement would be made, at least not in the near future.

Janesville Schools Face Coal Famine; Use 700 Tons; 1,000 Total Stock in Town

With what coal is on hand and enroute, there is approximately 1,000 tons of anthracite and bituminous to be had in Janesville, for household and business building use. The city's annual consumption is in the neighborhood of 60,000 tons.

These figures were given out here Tuesday by the traffic bureau of the Chamber of Commerce after a canvass of five of the biggest local dealers. The report is briefly:

Bituminous on hand in yards or enroute, 750 tons.

Anthracite, including on hand or enroute, 250 tons.

Approximate consumption per annum is 60,000 tons of which 45,000 is soft and 15,000 hard coal.

The only solution of the situation, according to A. G. Lockwood, traffic manager, is to "find the coal, stock it quickly." He says about 15 coal boats have been taken off in the port of Milwaukee and more may be withdrawn. The railroads, he says, have no unoccupied freight cars for coal. He says these statements are valid in Milwaukee from which he returned Monday.

Looks Bad for Schools. — Replying to the Chamber's queries, one coal dealer here said all his regular customers are supplied. He stated he does not know exactly how much coal there is on hand. Jesse Earle, president of the Board of Education, said Monday the situation looks bad for the schools. The city needs 700 tons to heat its schools. (Continued on page 5)

72-YEAR OLD COUPLE

"MOTOR" 3444 MI.

Old as well as young are taking to the highways for long trips this year, and the feat of Mr. and Mrs. William Freeburg, Ashland, Ore., has been to be expected. The couple, even younger people before it will be a common occurrence. Mr. and Mrs. Freeburg are now visiting relatives in Beloit, making their first long trip since they left their home. They passed through Janesville.

Mr. Freeburg is an artist and jeweler of Ashland. In May he and Mrs. Freeburg, both of whom are 72 years "motor" and they term it, packed their things, threw them in a touring car with Mr. Freeburg's canvases, paint and easel, and started off. They have covered 3444 miles to date.

They were not in any hurry, and made their objective Florida, but set no time. Consequently, the trip was a leisurely and enjoyable one. Often they stopped while Mr. Freeburg painted. He made dozens of pictures which he had no trouble disposing of to dealers. Their trip through the mountains is amusing to hear about, but was tedious when it happened. When bad weather was struck and the car stranded in some rut, Mr. and Mrs. Freeburg would go to bed for the night. In the morning the sun shined usually by out and the roads were soon dried up and passable.

They will soon leave Beloit to pursue their way to Florida, where they will spend the winter.

JANESVILLE YOUTH ARRESTED IN BELOIT

One doesn't have to go to Beloit to get liquor—he can get it right in Janesville, according to Howard Butler 21, Janesville, arrested in Beloit with Albert Fuhrman, Beloit. Fuhrman and Butler were arrested in handcuffs on a Beloit avenue when the police interfered. Butler told police he bought liquor in Janesville. Fuhrman was fined $10 and costs while Butler was released with a lecture. Edward Lenz, Janesville, was "pinched" for speeding. He was going 40 miles an hour on Riverside drive, according to a policeman.

DEMAND TRUSTEES PAY KLEIN CLAIM

Writ Issued by Circuit Court to Terminate Long Dispute.

An alternative mandamus writ requiring the board of trustees of the city of Janesville to pay Henry C. Klein $500 a year from the date of his retirement in 1919 has been issued by the circuit court. If the board, composed of Mayor Thomas E. Welsh, William J. Lennartz, Edwin J. Sartell, C. J. Murphy, C. C. Ryan, Fred Jungblut and John Quinn, does not comply, it has the alternative of stating the reason.

The action has been started by former Fire Chief Klein to end the long dispute over his pension. He retired Feb. 1, 1919, when he was chief of the fire department, and the pension board fixed his pension at $500, allowing him only half on his salary of $1000 as chief of the fire department, claiming he was not entitled to a pension for his services as city electrician, for which he received $500 at the time of his retirement. It was held this was a separate job.

Refused to Accept.

Mr. Klein refused to accept on this basis and has not received a cent, although the checks have been made out quarterly. On June 21, 1932, he demanded a pension of $500 per annum instead of $500. The board reconsidered his action and reaffirmed its decision.

On the basis of $500 a year from the date of retirement, Mr. Klein has due him, July 31, a total of $3,145.

The crux of the whole case lies in whether or not Mr. Klein was chief of the fire department and city electrician at the time of his retirement. The city attorney held he was, and entitled to the salary only as chief engineer.

Klein claims he was chief engineer, but performing the duties of both chief engineer and city electrician, and was appointed to the latter office, as provided in an ordinance passed by the city council on April 1, 1912.

Salary of $150.

The action filed through Klein's attorney, E. C. Burrows, states that Klein was appointed by the chief engineer of the fire department on Dec. 6, 1899, to be superintendent of the Gamewell fire alarm system which was installed in 1897. He was paid a salary of $150 a month for doing this work and on March 5, 1901, was named a call member of the department, with $150 a year in addition to the $150. He was given $50 per month for each of the years from 1901 to 1912, and on June 20, 1932, got $40 a month as a full paid fireman and for caring for the fire alarm system. This was the salary he was paid until June 12, 1932, when he was given notice to leave the department. The office of city electrician was created Oct. 1, 1900, the duties being specified to care for the fire alarm system and inspector of lights. Mr. Klein, it is claimed, was named to that office.

On Dec. 9, 1901, Mr. Klein was given $150 a year as light inspector, in addition to his salary of $50 a month. In September, 1902, he was appointed chief engineer of the fire department by Mayor V. P. Dickerson and only qualified at a salary of $100. It was stated he was to perform the duties of chief engineer, city electrician and inspector of lights. All other claims as to his salary were repudiated. On April 24, 1914, Mr. Klein was given $1,400 a year as chief and for performing the electrician's duties.

Applied for Retirement.

Mr. Klein applied for retirement Dec. 28, 1916, having served 25 years. The city desired to retain him as city engineer and city electrician, fixing his salary for chief engineer at $1,200 and electrician at $500. This went into effect Feb. 20, 1917. Mr. Klein alleges checks for $1,700 were made at one time, no ordinance having been passed since 1912, when it stated that the chief engineer should perform the duties of city electrician. The firemen's pension fund was created on Jan. 28, 1908, and Klein states that since that time he has paid one per cent of his salary into the fund, as required.

In case the firemen's pension board files its reasons for not complying with the writ, Judge George Grimm will have to rule on it and give his decision.

Attendance Still on the Increase at Playgrounds

Attendance at the playgrounds last week showed still another big increase over that of the week preceding, when the attendance was 3,500. Last week it was 1,075, an increase of 575.

Washington is first in attendance with a total of 1,075 at the grounds during the week. The Jefferson had 886 during the days, 150 at nights, making its total 921. The Adams school came up to third place with 816. The Webster grounds had 721 and the Douglas 575.

Twenty lessons were given at the Holmapple beach, attended by 1,188 people. More attended the Coopers Island beach, where 1,171 enjoyed a dip in the river. A total of 28 lessons were given there, and five persons learned to swim.

"Doll week" probably accounted for a great deal of the increased attendance. The contest for ribbons was a great inducement to the young girls, who worked hard all week to dress dolls for the exhibit Friday.

FIREWORKS SHOW FOR LOCAL FAIR

Entertainment Features Will be Better Than Ever, Say Officials.

Patrons of Janesville's 1932 fair will have no end of free entertainment during the four days the fair continues, Aug. 2, 3, 4 and 5, according to an announcement made by fair officials. An attempt has been made this year to provide even higher class entertainment to be presented free afternoons and nights. No effort has failed to have been made to secure attractions that are not only highly entertaining but of an unusually high quality.

An innovation in fair attractions will be offered when a mammoth exhibition of fireworks will be displayed right in the fair grounds. Tons of explosives have been obtained, including giant war bombs and mines, besides the usual aerial displays. The exhibit will be given every night of the four day period.

Hand Balancers

A huge stand will be erected opposite the grandstand and free performances presented afternoon and night. Arrangements have been made to have the stand illuminated during the evenings.

One of the attractions, which fair officials believe will prove very popular, are the Janesville Brothers, considered among the best hand balancers in the world. The Janesville Brothers have acquired an international reputation for the unusual brilliance of their work. Their act is said to be very original and daring in its presentation.

Another attraction which should please fair patrons is the Arabian gymnasts and pyramid builders, a bill which is known as a revelation in athletic entertainment. Besides this act, the "seven flying whirlwinds" will give two daily performances on the stand.

Clever Wire Walkers

The main feature of the entire program will be the presentation of Ford and Price, light wire walkers. Ford and Price are well known in vaudeville circles throughout the country as the peer of their profession. At one time they toured the United States on tour with their act, and the "seven flying whirlwinds" show. Their act is especially clever in its demonstration of light wire dancing.

"The Flying Leavens" will also have a prominent place on the list of attractions. The Leavens group is composed of six daring acrobats, who present an offering of acrobatic, leaping and passing aerial tricks, which are presented in a most sensational manner. In conjunction with such gymnastic activities, much laughter is created by the mirth-provoking antics of a splendid comedian, who lessens the tension of the thrills by creating plenty of opportunities for fun making.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 15 years old and I am very much in love with a young man 18. He comes to see me twice every week. I haven't any mother, but I stay with my father and brothers. My father does not want me to go with boys. He said that I am too young. I can never enjoy myself. My father is so mean to me that I have lost all my love for him.

My brothers are very good to me. Please tell me what to do that my father will let me go with boys. There are some other boys who want to go with me, too.

Do you think I am too young to go with boys? BROWN EYES.

Yes, I think you are too young to go with boys. Your father is trying to do you a kindness when he forbids you to go with them, and you should appreciate his point of view instead of blaming him. Do not be disobedient, but try to please your father. In a year or two when you are old enough to have boy callers your father will be more apt to let you have your own way, because it will have more faith in you. To disregard his wishes now will bring about an unfortunate misunderstanding and your father will not trust you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 14 years old and very much in love with a young man a few years my senior. He is very good to me, for he brings me candy and buys me everything I want. He is very kind to my mother, too, and she likes him, but she will not let me go anywhere with him alone. He has a car and comes and takes my mother and me out riding.

Please tell me what to do to make her let me go with him. She says

Appeal Granted in Bartel Case

An appeal to circuit court was granted by Judge H. L. Mansfield, Saturday in the case of Dr. Munn and Farnsworth against August Bartel, for medical services rendered Bartel's minor daughter, Mrs. Emily Klump. The case was dismissed in favor of the defendant by Judge Mansfield some time ago, on the grounds that, inasmuch as Mrs. Klump had left her father's home and was spending her own wages, the parent could not be held liable. The case will probably be tried before Judge Grimm in the fall session.

Petticoat Prosperity

According to an authority of the National Geographic Society, in Holland petticoats are an index to the prosperity of husbands. Apparently this traditional article of feminine attire parallels the pearl necklace, the fur coat and the limousine sometimes set up in this country as standards of affluence.

Quaint as the comparison may sound to American ears, there is at least a lesson in practical standards of value in the Dutch custom. In fact, millions of American women achieve distinction in dress without a hint of extravagance, their innate good taste being shown in how well rather than how much they spend. At this store the woman of modest means finds every facility for exercising both her good taste and her good sense in shopping.

Bleasdale, After Gettysburg Fete, Ordered to Island

Following the notable review on the Gettysburg battlefield, in which he took part, Capt. Victor F. Bleasdale, former Janesville resident now serving with the United States Marines, has received transfer orders for expeditionary duty on the island of Santo Domingo. He will leave the United States early in August.

This is Captain Bleasdale's second trip to the West Indies, he having served 18 months in the Haitian campaign in which the Marines made a forced march across the island under General Butler.

The Marine review at Gettysburg brought back to his memory the drama of the skirmish line memories of the Civil war. The Marines marched from Quantico, near Washington, to the famous battlefield, where they encountered the first celebration was to simulate the charge of Pickett. The second review was to show how the attack would be made with modern war equipment. Instead of the column which they encountered in the field to where the federal troops were entrenched in rifle pits, the Marines used artillery, tanks, airplanes, machine guns, grenades and other deadly implements brought out during the world war. A night attack on the famous old field was staged, in which powerful searchlights were used to show skirmish lines advancing in waves and airplanes circling overhead.

Civil war veterans, according to Captain Bleasdale, were astounded at the variety of weapons brought into play. The second attack, in which the modern equipment was employed, the veterans agreed that "Pickett, brave as he was could not even have started his charge."

BEAUTY CHATS by Edna Kent Forbes

ANSWERED LETTERS

Hi Luck—A mottled complexion indicates a disordered digestive system, especially a sluggish liver. Eat less meat and avail yourself of the benefits of this season derived from green vegetables and salads. A salad made from dandelion leaves equals any spring tonic that can be produced.

Brown Eyes—Your blackheads have not increased because of the cream you have used. You have found their immediate cause so they continue. A hot bath all over every day will relieve the pores to such an extent the complexion will be cleared. If this is neglected and the complexion is only receiving its daily cleansing, the pores of the face will naturally be overtaxed and clogged.

Curly—When hair falls out it is often due to a run down condition, but if your health is perfect and the hair falls, the scalp is in need of treatment. Massage daily and include with this a good hair tonic twice each week.

Belait—The blood tonic made from sugar and molasses can be taken at any season if it is needed. No blood purifier should be taken at any season any longer than required. Agar agar is taken with the food, as is the over the breakfast food. It will help your condition but it does not act as a physic. Never use either cocoa butter or lanoline on the face, as you will be inviting a growth of hair over the breakfast food. It will help with nourishing creams, which must contain the finest of oils and best.

John J. H.—As you have cleared your system until all the pimples have disappeared, it is likely your skin will improve until all traces of these eruptions have gone. If you feel that you prefer to hasten this, a healing lotion which has bleaching properties could be used on the face daily. An excellent thing for this is a "Cucumber Lotion." If you desire such a formula, I shall be glad to mail one on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope.

Blue Eyes—Peroxide and ammonia when used as a bleach for hair on the arms or legs should be of equal proportions.

M. H. L.—Boys and girls at your age are often troubled by skin eruptions which only denote a temporary condition. Do not overeat, and drink plenty of water. Form also the habit of a daily bath.

C. S.—An egg shampoo, which is also effective in removing dandruff from the scalp, is effected by first rubbing the yolk of the egg into the scalp. Allow this to remain on until it has thoroughly dried and adhere to the skin. Proceed then as in any ordinary shampoo, as the egg will dissolve and work into the warm, soapy water and all of it rinse out, leaving the scalp cleared of the dead particles of skin. The shampoo will also make the hair very soft and glossy.

SYSTEM, SOLUTION OF TOUR COMFORT

Equipment, Obtainable in Local Stores, Adds to Joy of Motoring.

Just one auto trip taken without well selected equipment is quite sufficient to convince the motorist of the necessity for more thoughtful next time. Preparing for a long overland trip is not a question of expenses, according to Janesville motorists, but a system in management and purchase of certain items of equipment that will make the trip more comfortable and enjoyable.

Not Hard to Get. All of the equipment necessary to make touring a real pleasure can be obtained in Janesville shops. The first essential is a supply of tools. These are kept in a specially prepared box, in neat order, they will be of much more use when needed than if tossed carelessly under the seats. Boxes to carry a complete outfit of tools are available in the hardware stores. They can be hung on the back of the machine. They can also be used for carrying cooking utensils and incidentals.

Use Gasoline Carefully. The experienced motorist has long forgotten the policy of cooking meals over a campfire and instead carries a small gasoline stove. The stove can be used for every cooking purpose and is a great help in the matter of the place of the stove in the matter of sleeping accommodations and the right side of the car is devoted to this, instead of the baggage. A really comfortable bed, motorists at the tourist camp on North Washington street say, can be folded on the running board and can be set up on the back of the car. A motorist's cover provides shelter. In fair weather the front flap of the tent becomes an awning.

Canteen for Water. Another part of the equipment popular with tourists is a canteen, containing approximately five gallons of water, that fits on the front seat. It is not high or wide enough to cause any discomfort to the driver, and it is designed with a faucet on one end and a small air connection through which air is forced from a little hand pump when running water is desired. It can be removed at will.

RED GOVERNMENT CUTS PRODUCTION

Closing of Factories Seen Following Report of Commission.

For ASSOCIATED PRESS. Moscow—Limitation of production and probably the closing down of several factories have been recommended by a special commission of experts in a report to the Council of Labor and Defense as a means of weathering the industrial crisis, which, after a few months of revival of Russian trade, has again become acute.

Since 1918 the Soviet government has many times been obliged to resort to limitation of industry due to shortage of fuel, raw materials and the lack of the present stringency is different.

Trade Conditions Bad. Limited sales, bad trade connections with the provinces, and the insufficiency of working capital at the disposal of the various government trusts and enterprises all have contributed to the present situation. Since the inauguration of the new economic policy the various nationalized industries have been combined in trusts, syndicates and reorganized to work on a commercial basis. All such concerns have been deprived of government supplies and their employees are largely untrained, having been with very small capital at a time when the Soviet ruble was continuously depreciating in purchasing power.

They had to fall back upon their old stock and later they began to increase production in order to manufacture sufficient goods to obtain funds for future operations. As a result the markets soon were flooded with goods. Overproduction and the low purchasing power of the ruble, these goods could neither be sold freely to wholesalers nor direct to consumers.

Would Curtail Industries. The commission proposes that practically every industry be curtailed. The program lists the following percentages of reduction: Coal industry by 15 percent; oil and petroleum by 25 percent; salt by 25 percent; cotton textiles, 25 percent; wool, 25 percent; linen, 25 percent; silk, 25 percent; leather, 25 percent; chemicals, 25 percent; glass, 25 percent; china, 25 percent.

The commission also reports that production has fallen greatly in comparison with pre-revolutionary times. The report says that the metal industry is down to 51 percent in the electrical.

Industrial Life. In a recent issue, says the new bankruptcy law, now being drafted, will provide that the government shall not be responsible for the debts of state-managed concerns. It is, however, has not yet been adopted by the council of commissars.

Too Many Laws, Declares Baker. Maritime—Wisconsin has too many laws, according to John P. Baker, for the last six years, assistant attorney general and independent progressive candidate for the republican nomination for attorney general in an address here last night.

Clifton as an illustration of too much law and an improper view of legislation, Mr. Baker declared the state's viewpoint as to restrictive motor legislation should be shifted. "Our system of motor laws," he said, "discourages the legitimate use of motor cars." He said, "Automobile laws in the state and their enforcement should be uniform."

Season for Bear Stories Is Opened in Far North

Prince George, B. C.—Two amusing bear stories, both told for the first time by eye-witnesses, are going the rounds here. Forest fires in northern British Columbia during the past month have had a peculiar effect upon some of the wild animals of the woods, judging from some of the stories brought in by Prince George.

A fight between a fire-eaten bear and a man, in which the bear was killed, occurred at B. C. The forest fire routed the bear from its lair, and in its dash from the flames into the open country it collided violently with a man. The bear was severely injured and the man was killed. The bear was then shot by a hunter.

Hand Picked. The bear picked itself up and cautiously approached the man, from a different angle. The huge paw was brought down with a resounding thump on the man's head. This was unfortunate. The bear was then shot by a hunter.

ITALY STILL HOPES TO BOSS ALBANIA

Commercial Control, at Least, Desired: More Trouble Expected.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia—Italians continue to control a part of Albania commercially, and the last word has not been heard from either Italy or Jugoslavia on the subject of Albania. This is the opinion of Americans here familiar with conditions in Albania.

Political significance is attached to the fact that General Alessandri, Italian minister of foreign affairs, attended the recent wedding of King Alexander and showed himself friendly to the Serbs. During his visit, only concluded a commercial agreement with Jugoslavia; he said also that he would return here as chief of legation, representing the Albanian government of Tirana.

Those watching the Albanian situation here in a struggle for control between Italy and Jugoslavia still unwilling to abandon their old hopes of commercially improving the country. Italian and other things, are interested in securing water-power concessions near Tirana and drawing off the electric current to Italy by a submarine cable. French and English capital is said to be interested with Italian money in this project.

The League of Nations is interested in the development of Albania. At the request of the Albanian government the Council of the League at its last session decided upon a virtual protectorate for Albania, financial, economic and constitutional experts to be appointed by the League to advise Albania as to the best means of establishing herself on an independent basis. A league adviser will also sit with the Albanian government council. It is thought that the league's appointment will include both an Italian and a Jugoslavian.

What horrible and mysterious power was forcing the three Drake brothers, HOBART, the Wall Street broker, ANDREW, the scientist, and ROGER, the inventor, to place themselves in perilous situations? So far, the three were now terror-stricken. Some power had forced HOBART to deliver a mock speech in the public square. Roger to burlesque a scientific address, and Andrew to sit on the floor and play with toys. They were sane, and PATRICIA, daughter of HOBART, was secretly secured OWEN MILES, detective sergeant, and his colleagues. MILES, to investigate. MILES is employed as a houseman and Scottie as a gaffer. While MILES learns did not go through the mail, arrives and throws HOBART into a prison. MILES, to watch MISS JERUSA DRANE, spinster sister of the brothers, whom he discovered in a wildly excited state late at night before an open grave in which she was burning papers of some kind.

Chapter IX. It was HOBART, Drake's unbroken custom of years to return to the market place at the market closed at noon on Saturdays, but on the day following that of the arrival of the new gardener, luncheon came—and passed and he did not appear nor did any word come from him. "There is a station taxi, coming down the road and—yes, HOBART is inside!" exclaimed Miss Drake when tea was served. When MILES reached the library door, he saw the measured tones of HOBART Drake came distinctly to his ears. "Sorry, but there were many details to attend to in getting up my affairs."

"Settling up?" It was Andrew, and the devil-may-care note had vanished from his voice.

"I am no longer a member of the Stock Exchange," announced HOBART quietly. "Of all the d—d fools!" Andrew exploded. "First Roger, and then you, both of you lying down and taking it. By God, if I thought there was more fighting blood in the family than that, I'd be afraid!"

It was still comparatively early when MILES was free to join Scottie. "There's only one new angle to consider," Scottie remarked at last. "That is Andrew's attitude in the matter. He's not thinking of the fresh gossip. It may be that he has made a good bit of money through HOBART's inside tips in the market and doesn't want to lose the graft. What was that?"

"I didn't see anything," MILES thought a light winked twice down there by the gate. They crept around the house and were skirting the hedge when a sudden movement behind a tree brought them to a halt.

"I ain't gwine to fish no gun!"

"Am I the last of your old friends?" A tremulous voice spoke out of the darkness. "Rip!" MILES exclaimed. "You're some watchman!"

"Lordy!" Rip advanced and added sheepishly: "I thought it was dem two again."

"What two?" demanded Scottie. "Dunno," Rip mumbled. "Two fellows come through here de yother night—an I ordsen dem away an' says de next time dey come back I's gwine to shoot."

"What did they look like?" But Rip could give no further information and the two detectives withdrew.

MILES looked up the house and retired. The family breakfasted late on Sunday and Carter was well enough to serve them but he came out to the detective who was helping in the pantry and asked:

"William, will you go up to Miss Patricia's door and tell her the folks are waiting for her?"

MILES hurriedly ascended and knocked upon Patricia's door but no reply came to him and after repeating the summons again he ventured to turn the knob. The door swung inward, revealing an empty room, the bed smooth and untouched, and lying in a heap across a chair, where it had been carelessly flung, was the gown which Patricia had worn the night before. She was gone!

CHAPTER X. MILES proceeded straight to the dining room: he must see for himself what reaction the first shock of the news would bring to the family. "Miss Patricia's not there, M'am," the detective said quietly.

"Not—there?" The woman's lips barely formed the words and a muttered oath came from Andrew, but

Dinner Stories

Danny was given a new diary, and encouraged to set down each day's doings. He was very proud of it and determined to keep it faithful.

"The first day he wrote: 'Got up at 7,' and then continued to record incidents of the day. At his father's suggestion he took it to the teacher for approval."

She did not like the phrase "got up," "Don't say 'got up,'" Danny said. "The sun doesn't get up it rises."

When he retired that night Danny remembered his lesson, and wrote carefully in his diary, "Set at eight."

A deaf man was being married and the clergyman asked the usual question: "Do you take this woman for your lawful wife?"

"Eh?" said the deaf man. "Do you take this woman for your lawful wife?" This time a bit louder.

The groom seemed to get angry. "Oh, I don't know," he said. "She ain't so awful. I've seen wuss than her that didn't have as much money."

"And now, sister and brethren," announced the Rev. Moses Taylor. "We will take up our annual collection for the benefit of the heathen. At the same time, I embrace the opportunity to express the hope that the young men who have been making so much noise throughout the service will be especially liberal in their contribution. In duty bound they must help their brother heathen."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT Breakfast. Berries. Cream Flakes. Coffee. Cream Toast. (Milk for children). Luncheon. Cream of Tomato Soup. Salmon Salad. Potatoes with Parsley. Tapoca Cream. Iced Cocoa.

Dinner. Fruit Cocktail. Chile Con Carne. Stuffed Tomato Salad. Iced Tea. Stewed Berries.

TODAY'S RECIPES Chile Con Carne—Brown a large onion in fat. Add three-quarters of a pound of ground beef. When thoroughly brown, add a pint can of tomatoes and a can of kidney beans (not the baked ones). Add also a cup of water. Season with salt, pepper and add a teaspoon of more of chile powder. The gravy may be thickened, or broken bits of spaghetti may be added. Serve with potato chips or mashed potatoes.

Stuffed Tomato Salad—Skin tomatoes by dipping in boiling water, one for each person. Cut a slice off the top of each tomato and hollow the inside. To the pulp removed, add a chopped hard-boiled egg and heart of lettuce. Season with salt and pepper, mix with dressing and pack solidly in the tomato shells. Replace the top and place in the ice box. When ready to serve place each tomato on a lettuce leaf and add dressing and paprika. Tomatoes are also delicious when stuffed with chicken salad.

Stewed Berries—These are easily and quickly made. Wash the berries thoroughly. If the berries are sour add a cup of sugar to a cup of fruit. For sweet berries use half this. Place fruit and sugar in a pan and stir until juicy. Allow to boil a few minutes, then skin, cool, and serve. This may be chilled and poured over ice cream, or over sponge cake.

SUGGESTIONS Casserole dishes of chopped soup meat are good. Here is a suggestion. Put a little fresh fat in the frying pan and when hot not smoking add one or two chopped onions. Cook the onions without letting them burn. Next turn in the chopped meat and mix and then add enough canned tomatoes to make a soft mass. Turn this into a pressure cooking pot. Add a very little between two radiators. A very little soup meat is enough to make into croquettes, because these are best when combined with cooked rice, farina or other cereal. They should be well seasoned. Tomato and onion flavor are well employed to give back the flavor robbed by prolonged cooking of soup meat.

Wash Tub Keeps Hands Beautiful

Would you believe that I envy my laundress, her soft, girlish hands? "Martha," I finally asked her, "how do you do your hands?"

"Once my hands were red, rough and dry, do you know them that way?" This is what she told me.

"The one soap he said that had no 'filler' in it was far better than called GREEN ARROW soap. It was greenish in color like castile, because it contained real olive oil."

"Well, I induced the next woman I washed for to get some from her supply."

"The very first washing left my hands soft and not the least rough or red. But it took several washings before I realized it was due to too much soap, because GREEN ARROW, being all soap, is all cleaning power and does much more than the soap I had been accustomed to."

"I have never seen anything like this combination of olive oil and naphtha in GREEN ARROW soap—the way it cuts the grease and fairly makes the dirt drop out of the clothes after a little soaking. I scarcely ever have to rub anything, except perhaps the seat of Goddard's rompers or Mr. Barton's shirt bands and collar bands, and never any hard, destructive rubbing even so."

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

I'm tired of hearing the differences of men and women emphasized and expounded. It has built a wicked wall between the sexes, and it's time we knocked it down. Men and women were meant to work together for the same ends under the fighting code. No sensible person denies that the feminine psychology differs somewhat from the masculine. The reformer who would boost women into the position now occupied by men in the political and commercial world on the assumption that "anything a man can do, a woman can do better," is just as idiotic and harmful as the Turk who would keep his women veiled.

A woman is different. So is a pen knife different from a plough share. But a pen knife is just as understandable, just as useful and dependable as a plough share. It is made for more delicate uses, but it does not occupy a superior place in the creative world, nor does it hope to escape the common lot of cutting blades in general. And that's exactly the difference, and the only difference, that exists or should be recognized, between men and women.

He wanted something else now—what do you guess it was? Later you shall see.
